A male perspective of gender equality

Mark Ashley Parry

Northumbria University, UK

Mark Ashley Parry is currently an associate lecturer at Northumbria University, affiliate researcher with the Disaster and Development Network, and COVID-19 catch-up tutor at the Brilliant Club. Between 2015 and 2019, he also worked as President of the Disaster and Development Society, where he still acts as an advisor.

Mark's research is focused on both climate change perception and engagement, especially exploring intergenerational differences. His most recent work has focused on the role of Trust and Truth during the COVID-19 pandemic and how it might be contributing toward the development of a Nihilist State.

Mark recently obtained a PhD from Northumbria University with a thesis entitled "Climate Change Perception, Engagement and Response in the United Kingdom and the Crown Dependencies: the case of youth participation".
