UN Global Risk Report

(UN; July 2025)

The inaugural UN Global Risk Report delivers a clear message: global risks—like climate disruption, pandemics, and emerging technologies—are complex, interconnected, and escalating. No country, company, or institution can tackle them alone. The report underscores the urgent need for international cooperation and communication to address these shared vulnerabilities and build a safer, more resilient future for all.

GAR 2025 Resilience Pays: Investing and Financing for Our Future

(UNDRR; May 2025)

The global cost of disasters is soaring. From $70–80 billion annually 1970–2000, direct disaster costs rose to $180–200 billion by 2020. When factoring in cascading and ecosystem impacts, the true annual cost exceeds $2.3 trillion. The UNDRR Global Assessment Report 2025: Resilience Pays urges smarter investment to break the cycle of disasters, debt, and rising humanitarian needs in a world increasingly shaped by climate change.
